Best bike

Berlin, by Biomega

We've long been advocates of the bicycle as the way to navigate traffic-clogged urban centres, but the ideal model has proved elusive. Until now. The Berlin, from Danish firm Biomega, doesn't go on sale until the new year, but we've already placed our order. It's simply the perfect town bike: it has the only eight gears you'll ever need, super-efficient disc brakes and a Velo saddle for comfort. There's even a shaft-driven variant, should you have a premonition of a disastrous collision between an oily chain and your best Balenciaga trouser suit. ★
